

PowerSolve Technologies Privacy Policy

1. Introduction

- PowerSolve Technologies is committed to safeguarding the privacy of its website visitors and service users.
- This policy applies where PowerSolve Technologies are acting as a data controller with respect to the personal data of our website visitors and service users; in other words, where PowerSolve Technologies determines the purposes and means of the processing of that personal data.
- PowerSolve uses cookies on this website. Where those cookies are not strictly necessary for the provision of this website and services, PowerSolve Technologies will ask you to consent to the use of cookies when you first visit the website.
- This website incorporates privacy controls which affect how PowerSolve will process your personal data. By using the privacy controls, you can specify whether you would like to receive direct marketing communications and limit the publication of your information.
- In this policy, “PowerSolve”, “us” and “our” refers to PowerSolve Technologies.

2. How PowerSolve uses your personal data

Under this section, PowerSolve sets out:

- a) the general categories of personal data that it may process;
 - b) in the case of personal data that PowerSolve did not obtain directly from you, the source and specific categories of that data;
 - c) the purposes for which PowerSolve may process personal data; and
 - d) the legal bases of the processing.
- PowerSolve may process data about your use of our website and services (“usage data”). The usage data may include your IP address, geographical location, browser type and version, operating system, referral source, length of visit, page views and website navigation paths, as well as information about the timing, frequency and pattern of your service use. The source of the usage data is our analytics tracking system. This usage data may be processed for the purposes of analysing the use of the website and services. The legal basis for this processing is our legitimate interests, namely monitoring and improving our website and services.
 - PowerSolve may process your account data (“account data”). The account data may include your name and email address. The source of the account data is you or your employer. The account data may be processed for the purposes of operating our website, providing our services, ensuring the security of our website and services, maintaining back-ups of our databases and communicating with you. The legal basis for this processing is our legitimate interests, namely the proper administration of our website and business.
 - PowerSolve may process your information included in your personal profile on our website (“profile data”). The profile data may include your name, address, telephone number, email address, profile pictures, gender, date of birth, relationship status, interests and hobbies, educational details and employment details. The profile data may be processed for the purposes of enabling and monitoring your use of our website and services. The legal basis for this processing is our legitimate interests, namely the proper administration of our website and business.

- PowerSolve may process information contained in any enquiry you submit to us regarding goods and/or services (“request demo data”). The request demo data may be processed for the purposes of offering, marketing and selling relevant goods and/or services to you. The legal basis for this processing is consent.
- PowerSolve may process information relating to our customer relationships, including customer contact information (“customer relationship data”). The customer relationship data may include your name, your employer, your job title or role, your contact details, and information contained in communications between us and you or your employer. The source of the customer relationship data is you or your employer. The customer relationship data may be processed for the purposes of managing our relationships with customers, communicating with customers, keeping records of those communications and promoting our products and services to customers. The legal basis for this processing is consent OR our legitimate interests, namely the proper management of our customer relationships.
- PowerSolve may process information relating to transactions, including purchases of goods and services, that you enter into with us and/or through our website (“transaction data”). The transaction data may include your contact details. The transaction data may be processed for the purpose of supplying the purchased goods and services and keeping proper records of those transactions. The legal basis for this processing is the performance of a contract between you and us and/or taking steps, at your request, to enter into such a contract and our legitimate interests, namely the proper administration of our website and business.
- PowerSolve may process information that you provide to us for the purpose of subscribing to our email notifications and/or newsletters (“notification data”). The notification data may be processed for the purposes of sending you the relevant notifications and/or newsletters. The legal basis for this processing is consent.
- PowerSolve may process information contained in or relating to any communication that you send to us (“correspondence data”). The correspondence data may include the communication content and metadata associated with the communication. Our website will generate the metadata associated with communications made using the website contact forms. The correspondence data may be processed for the purposes of communicating with you and record-keeping. The legal basis for this processing is our legitimate interests, namely the proper administration of our website and business and communications with users.
- In addition to the specific purposes for which PowerSolve may process your personal data set out in this section 3, PowerSolve may also process any of your personal data where such processing is necessary for compliance with a legal obligation to which PowerSolve are subject, or in order to protect your vital interests or the vital interests of another natural person.
- Please do not supply any other person’s personal data to us, unless PowerSolve prompt you to do so.

3. Providing your personal data to others

This section explains how and in what circumstances your personal data may be provided to others.

- PowerSolve may disclose your personal data to any member of our group of companies (this means our subsidiaries, our ultimate holding company and all its subsidiaries) insofar as reasonably necessary for the purposes, and on the legal bases, set out in this policy.
- PowerSolve may disclose your personal data to our insurers and/or professional advisers insofar as reasonably necessary for the purposes of obtaining or maintaining insurance coverage, managing risks, obtaining professional advice, or the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims, whether in court proceedings or in an administrative or out-of-court procedure.
- PowerSolve may disclose your personal data to our suppliers or subcontractors insofar as reasonably necessary for proper administration of our website and business and communications.
- In addition to the specific disclosures of personal data set out in this Section 4, PowerSolve may disclose your personal data where such disclosure is necessary for compliance with a legal obligation to which PowerSolve are subject, or in order to protect your vital interests or the vital interests of another natural person.

4. Retaining and deleting personal data

This section sets out our data retention policies and procedure, which are designed to help ensure that PowerSolve comply with our legal obligations in relation to the retention and deletion of personal data.

- Personal data that PowerSolve process for any purpose or purposes shall not be kept for longer than is necessary for that purpose or those purposes.
- Notwithstanding the other provisions of this Section 6, PowerSolve may retain your personal data where such retention is necessary for compliance with a legal obligation to which PowerSolve are subject, or in order to protect your vital interests or the vital interests of another natural person.

5. Amendments

PowerSolve may update this policy from time to time by publishing a new version on our website.

- You should check this page occasionally to ensure you are happy with any changes to this policy.
- PowerSolve may notify you of significant changes to this policy by email.

6. Your rights

In this Section, PowerSolve have summarised the rights that you have under data protection law. Some of the rights are complex, and not all of the details have been included in our summaries. Accordingly, you should read the relevant laws and guidance from the regulatory authorities for a full explanation of these rights.

PowerSolve Technologies Privacy Policy

Your principal rights under data protection law are:

- a) the right to access;
 - b) the right to rectification;
 - c) the right to erasure;
 - d) the right to restrict processing;
 - e) the right to object to processing;
 - f) the right to data portability;
 - g) the right to complain to a supervisory authority; and
 - h) the right to withdraw consent.
- You have the right to confirmation as to whether or not PowerSolve process your personal data and, where PowerSolve do, access to the personal data, together with certain additional information. That additional information includes details of the purposes of the processing, the categories of personal data concerned and the recipients of the personal data. Providing the rights and freedoms of others are not affected, PowerSolve will supply to you a copy of your personal data. The first copy will be provided free of charge, but additional copies may be subject to a reasonable fee.
 - You have the right to have any inaccurate personal data about you rectified and, taking into account the purposes of the processing, to have any incomplete personal data about you completed.
 - In some circumstances you have the right to the erasure of your personal data without undue delay. Those circumstances include: the personal data are no longer necessary in relation to the purposes for which they were collected or otherwise processed; you withdraw consent to consent-based processing; you object to the processing under certain rules of applicable data protection law; the processing is for direct marketing purposes; and the personal data have been unlawfully processed. However, there are exclusions of the right to erasure. The general exclusions include where processing is necessary: for exercising the right of freedom of expression and information; for compliance with a legal obligation; or for the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims.
 - In some circumstances you have the right to restrict the processing of your personal data. Those circumstances are: you contest the accuracy of the personal data; processing is unlawful but you oppose erasure; PowerSolve no longer need the personal data for the purposes of our processing, but you require personal data for the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims; and you have objected to processing, pending the verification of that objection. Where processing has been restricted on this basis, PowerSolve may continue to store your personal data. However, PowerSolve will only otherwise process it: with your consent; for the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims; for the protection of the rights of another natural or legal person; or for reasons of important public interest.
 - You have the right to object to our processing of your personal data on grounds relating to your particular situation, but only to the extent that the legal basis for the processing is that the processing is necessary for: the performance of a task carried out in the public interest or in the exercise of any official authority vested in us; or the purposes of the legitimate interests pursued by us or by a third party. If you make such an objection, PowerSolve will cease to process the personal information unless PowerSolve can demonstrate compelling legitimate grounds for the processing which override your interests, rights and freedoms, or the processing is for the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims.

- You have the right to object to our processing of your personal data for direct marketing purposes (including profiling for direct marketing purposes). If you make such an objection, PowerSolve will cease to process your personal data for this purpose.
- You have the right to object to our processing of your personal data for scientific or historical research purposes or statistical purposes on grounds relating to your particular situation, unless the processing is necessary for the performance of a task carried out for reasons of public interest.
- To the extent that the legal basis for our processing of your personal data is: (a) consent; or (b) that the processing is necessary for the performance of a contract to which you are party or in order to take steps at your request prior to entering into a contract, and such processing is carried out by automated means, you have the right to receive your personal data from us in a structured, commonly used and machine-readable format. However, this right does not apply where it would adversely affect the rights and freedoms of others.
- If you consider that our processing of your personal information infringes data protection laws, you have a legal right to lodge a complaint with a supervisory authority responsible for data protection. You may do so in the EU member state of your habitual residence, your place of work or the place of the alleged infringement.
- To the extent that the legal basis for our processing of your personal information is consent, you have the right to withdraw that consent at any time. Withdrawal will not affect the lawfulness of processing before the withdrawal.
- You may exercise any of your rights in relation to your personal data by written notice to us.

7. About cookies

- A cookie is a file containing an identifier (a string of letters and numbers) that is sent by a web server to a web browser and is stored by the browser. The identifier is then sent back to the server each time the browser requests a page from the server.
- Cookies may be either “persistent” cookies or “session” cookies: a persistent cookie will be stored by a web browser and will remain valid until its set expiry date, unless deleted by the user before the expiry date; a session cookie, on the other hand, will expire at the end of the user session, when the web browser is closed.
- Cookies do not typically contain any information that personally identifies a user, but personal information that PowerSolve store about you may be linked to the information stored in and obtained from cookies.

8. Cookies that PowerSolve use

PowerSolve use cookies to help us to analyse the use and performance of our website and services.
